

BOY > RACER > ART >

For the last few years there has for obvious reasons been an increasing fascination with the changing pace of Modern-day life, most notably perhaps with the exhibitions Rapid - Artpace, Auckland and Dunedin Public Art Gallery, Dunedin, 1997 - Speed - Whitechapel and the Photographers Gallery, London, 1998 - and most recently, Drive - Govett-Brewster Art Gallery, New Plymouth, 2000. Large, comprehensive and thorough documents of the 20th Century, these shows however seem to have quickly missed the point, or be completely oblivious to (or perhaps too scared to acknowledge) the real driving force of modernity as it races past. Ambling slowly down the middle of the road, looking over their shoulders and watching the scenery out of the window, no one has noticed the New Futurists as they speed on by. Whilst some prefer to wax philosophical about our love affair with the Automobile and the Information Superhighway, boy racers, motorheads and garage geeks are still cruising the main.
